Editorial by Lalitha Rao

Welcome to the Mysore book club newsletter of June 2017. As this is the first time we are in print, we are all excited to be with you and hope you'll enjoy all about what we have been up to in the past months.

It's been smooth sailing ever since we started as a book club with the aim of getting together as a group of people who enjoy reading, sharing their thoughts on books and the written page, meeting authors and gaining fascinating insights from them.

We generally operate thus: a book selection is made for the month and members spend time reading it, making notes and points for discussion. At the meeting itself a lively forum ensues, with plenty of opinions to exchange and views to share. Sometimes we meet at a member's home, but mostly at a nearby hotel where we can also enjoy coffee and delicious cake which the hotel is famous for!

When we call authors a member makes the necessary introduction of the guest, and then the author is invited to speak on their writings. The floor is then open for discussion. We have enjoyed the visits of authors like SamhitaArni, YasminPremji and Mahesh Rao, YaminiMuthanna and others, each meeting has been rewarding and a pleasure to attend.

Our reach extends into Kannada readers and children with clubs running for all groups. I feel that with the advent of book clubs in the city, the cultural quotient of Mysore has definitely gone up.

What do you as readers feel? Are book clubs a necessary addition to the cultural swirl of a city? What advantages and benefits do they bring to the citizen?

Do keep in touch with us. We'll be communicating regularly with you as time passes. The literature festival being held in Mysore is a first of its kind and the response is encouraging.

All the best till the next newsletter and happy reading dear friends.

The Charmer and the Charmed

Rendezvous with Mahesh Rao

Dvanyaloka is a wooded, serene environment soaked in English literature. Mrs. Jayashree graciously allowed use of late Prof. C.D.Narasimhaiah's library for the author's meet. The presence of well-preserved books created the atmosphere for the day's activities.Mahesh Rao with his collection of short stories in “One Point Two Billion”, met club members at a venue that was conducive to such an interaction. Mahesh was his composed self, answering all questions thrown at him with aplomb. When questions moved away from the book, his tongue-in-cheek answers brought out the author's sense of humour. Every story had a connect with the author, which turned out more interesting than the printed one! We learnt that the modern trend was to leave the conclusion of any short story to the imagination of the reader!

Heritage Connection

Bowled over by Yasmin Premji

Graceful, eloquent YasminPremji brought “Days of Gold and Sepia” alive at Wind Chimes through her reading of the novel that's woven out of ordinary lives and incidents. The story is about LaljiRakha, from Kutch to the streets of Mumbai and his meteoric rise to fame and fortune. She gives credit to her mother and grandmother for the ideas that her novel. The tale spreads over three generations starting from long before India's independence to just after India's freedom from the British and the agony of partition. She answered all questions, with equanimity and composure. Her book showed how strong women were in a male dominated society. Such was the magic spell that Yasmin cast on her listeners ,that we did not want the discussion to end, but end it did followed by a sumptuous lunch.

Reading Habit - Children's Book Club

A whole life may be lived within the pages of a book! The idea of creating an opportunity for young children to experience and express their love of reading led to 'Reading Habit' – a platform that took shape as an ancillary of the first Book Club started in Mysore.

An informal beginning was made in October 2016, at Dvanyaloka with a story reading session by Dr. Padmini, a writer of short stories for children. About 15 children attended who were then led to a group activity that saw them express their interpretation of the story through a pictorial representation.

An enthusiastic set of parents encouraged the inaugural launch of the 'Reading Habit', by Ms.SamhitaArni, a well-known author who began her literary journey while still a child. Subsequent sessions were a reinforcement of this thought. Children ranging from ages 7 – 13 attended the meetings held in the sylvan surroundings of a neighbourhood park, eager to express their love of a favorite book, or about a recently read story.

In the words of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, 'There are many little ways to enlarge your child's world. Love of books is the best of all'.

This is the endeavor of the Reading Habit

The Missing Queen-SamhitaArni

Green hotel was chosen ,to meet young,smart, knowledgeable SamhitaArni to discuss"'The Missing Queen".

The book set in the modern era, takes on a different view of Sita and The Ramayana. Only when the interaction began did reality dawn, that it was a very well researched book. All the characters in shades of grey with no scope for any one hero or heroine.The author and the book send a strong message of feminist intentions. Samhita's frank sharing of her life made for interesting listening.

What Children think:

I like the book club because I like reading books. I like listening to other people's stories about what they have read. It makes me want to read more. Though I know how to read, I also like the storytelling sessions too. It's fun to listen to stories.Meeting at the park once a month for the book club is also fun because we get to play with our friends afterwards. -Sonali 4thStd

I learnt lots about the books. I learnt many morals from many books that I haven't read. I also got my English grammar better and got the courage to speak in front of everyone. I also met new people whom I didn't see in school and made them my friends. I also got other new books which I haven't heard off and I am waiting for sharing the stories of those books too.-Vishnu 7thStd

In the book club we get to hear new names of books and new stories from it. We feel like reading a better book than before. When we listen from a friend, we feel like reading more and more. It makes me feel good when I am in the book club sharing my understanding of the book-Adithi Rao 8thStd

I like the way we get to express our feelings about the book . I also like to hear my friend's feelings about the book. I like to get to know so many authors names and the way they write. I also like to meet all my friends and my value education teacher in the book club. -Maanya 4thStd

'Gymnasiums have replaced Libraries now'

Literary buffs interact with writer Jayanth Kaikini

Writer Jayanth Kaikini is seen addresssing literary enthusiasts at a function held at Dhvanyaloka on Bogadi Road here this morning.

Mysuru, Feb. 6 (US&RKB)- "Libraries are being replaced by gymnasiums as fetish for fitness is more among people than that for literary knowledge," observed writer Jayanth Kaikini.

He was interacting with literary enthusiasts at a function organised by Kannada Odugara Okkuta at Dhvanyaloka on Bogadi Road here this morning.

Expressing happiness that more than 100 literary buffs had gathered at the venue, Jayanth Kaikini said that he used to attend functions like writers' meet or poets' meet but commended the Okkuta in organising a meet of readers. He also hailed the city for presenting a good number of literary giants. He appealed the youth to devote some time for reading books as it would refresh their mind. He recalled the earlier days when bibliophiles used to throng libraries to browse through detective novels but regretted that the reading habit had drastically declined now among people with the advent of information technology.

Okkuta Founder Shubha Sanjay welcomed the gathering.
